

MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.

Ditson & Co. have recently issued, as one of the volumes of their popular octavo edition of standard musical works, Mendelssohn's music to Racine's "Athalie," the piano score with an English adaptation of the words by M. Barthélemy. Like all the other volumes of the series, it is distinguished by its convenient form, cheap price, and admirably clear type.

Madame Desleuze, a lady of this city, has written the words and music of a song entitled "Napoleon's Dream," which has been published by Horace Waters, and will be sold at the forthcoming French fair for the benefit of the wounded and suffering in Europe. The music is simple and easy, and will no doubt be popular, especially with patriotic Frenchmen.

The famous German popular songs which are now chanted in the Prussian camps, and at every patriotic gathering of the German people, are published in this city in a variety of shapes. Fairchild & Dwyer include in the "Musical Coronet," an arrangement of "The Watch on the Rhine," solo and chorus. Carl Wille's "Watch on the Rhine," solo and chorus, with piano accompaniment, Ditson & Co. publish the same, with English and German words, and Reichardt's "Waltz" ("Die deutsche Fäderland") with a translation into English. A piano transcription of "The Watch on the Rhine," by Ch. Weis, is also published by Ditson.

Among the sheet music recently published by Ditson & Co. we find several pieces which deserve more than a passing notice. Such are Schumann's "Gipsy Life" ("Zigeuner Leben"), a fascinating chorus for mixed voices, with which Theodore Thomas made us acquainted at one of his last Symphony Soirees in this city; the "Mad Scene" from "Hamlet," with which Miss Nilsson has everywhere produced such an effect; and a carousole of Gounod's, "Say, oh beautiful Maiden!" ("Ce rendez-vous d'aller"). All these have the original words, with English translation. Of miscellaneous songs just issued by the same house we may mention "King Macbeth," a baritone air by F. Booth; "The Village Blacksmith's Bride," a ballad by G. Holst; and "Mandolina," a ballad by E. Paladine. The new issue of piano music includes a "Galop brillant" by Charles Weis, entitled "Race for Life;" the "Königssieder Waltz," by Johann Strauss; and "Consorten Waltzes," by Josef Strauss.

Mr. C. C. Mueller proposes to publish by subscription a translation and adaptation for popular use of Simon Sechter's valuable treatise on the "Theory of Harmony" ("Die richtige Fäde der Grundharmonie"), a work intended to supersede the old system of Thorough-Bass, taught in the majority of our text-books, which Mr. Mueller denounces as utterly worthless and obsolete, and destitute now-a-days of any practical application. For those who are not acquainted with the reputation of Sechter in Germany, it may be sufficient to say that Theodore Thomas pronounces his work "the best and clearest guide to any one wishing to have a thorough, practical knowledge of harmony;" that Carl Bergmann recommends it as "the best treatise on the subject;" and that many others of our best musicians, including Henry C. Kimball, William Mason, and George F.リスト, are equally emphatic in their commendations. Mr. Mueller we believe, has been engaged for a long time in his commendable effort to bring this work to the knowledge of the American public, and we trust that he will receive ample encouragement to persevere, for with a sum as low as $100, lists will be sent at cost of Schirmer's and other music stores.
